

EMPLOYEES AND MANAGERS

INCREASE YOUR EARNINGS

“Whilst ability and experience are skills highly sought-after by employers, being a member of a professional body can help you to stand out from the competition and give you an edge when applying for a new job or an internal promotion.

In addition, any qualifications gained from such a body can provide you with industry-specific skills, and at the same time can also demonstrate your commitment to training, career development and the industry itself. In fact, many of our clients give preference to NAEA and ARLA Propertymark members and qualified candidates when recruiting, and some even pay higher salaries to those with such qualifications.”
